

Assessment Literacy to Support Student Learning: Two-Day Workshop

Choice of Dates and Locations

This FREE, two-day interactive workshop is designed to help Vermont teachers, paraprofessionals, and administrators leverage a variety of assessment data to inform instruction, provide actionable feedback to students, as well as identify broader needs for students and staff development. We will work as a whole group for part of the day, and then work in groups differentiated by levels and roles.

Workshop Goals

- Understand the components and purpose of a strong local comprehensive assessment system.
- Learn about a variety of assessment types and when to use each with students.
- Evaluate your local assessments for validity and reliability.
- Learn how to interpret and use Lexiles, Quantiles, and student work to make instructional and programming decisions.
- Explore high-leverage, research-supported interventions to use with students in response to assessment data.
